

When I'm working on a problem,
I never think about beauty. I think only how to solve the problem. But when I have finished, if the solution
is not beautiful, I know it is wrong.
Richard Buckminster Fuller

Mechanical Engineering
Lighting Design
Sustainable Design
Electrical Engineering

Copenhagen
London
Sydney
Hong Kong
New York

e : hradvisor@steensenvarming.com

HUMAN RESOURCES

STEENSEN VARMING

Job applicant privacy notice (compliant with the GDPR)

As part of any recruitment process, the organisation collects and processes personal data relating to job applicants. Steensen Varming is committed to being transparent about how it collects and uses that data and to meeting its data protection obligations.

What information does Steensen Varming collect?

Steensen Varming collects a range of information about you. This includes:

- Your name, address and contact details, including email address and telephone number;
- Details of your qualifications, skills, experience, employment history, remuneration; and
- Information about your entitlement to work in the country of application.]

Steensen Varming may collect this information in a variety of ways. For example, data might be contained in application forms, CVs or resumes, obtained from your passport or other identity documents, or collected through interviews or other forms of assessment, including online tests.

Steensen Varming may also collect personal data about you from third parties, such as references supplied by former employers, information from employment background check providers and information from criminal records checks. The organisation will seek information from third parties only once a job offer to you has been made and will inform you that it is doing so.

Data will be stored in a range of different places, including on your application record, in HR management systems and on other IT systems (including email).

Why does Steensen Varming process personal data?

Steensen Varming needs to process data to take steps at your request prior to entering into a contract with you. It may also need to process your data to enter into a contract with you.

In some cases, the organisation needs to process data to ensure that it is complying with its legal obligations. For example, it is required to check a successful applicant's eligibility to work in the country before employment starts.

The organisation has a legitimate interest in processing personal data during the recruitment process and for keeping records of the process. Processing data from job applicants allows the organisation to manage the recruitment process, assess and confirm a candidate's suitability for employment and decide to whom to offer a job. The organisation may also need to process data from job applicants to respond to and defend against legal claims.

The organisation may process special categories of data, such as information about ethnic origin, sexual orientation or religion or belief, to monitor recruitment statistics. It may also collect information about whether or not applicants are disabled to make

When I'm working on a problem, I never think about beauty. I think only how to solve the problem. But when I have finished, if the solution is not beautiful, I know it is wrong.
Richard Buckminster Fuller

Mechanical Engineering
Lighting Design
Sustainable Design
Electrical Engineering

Copenhagen
London
Sydney
Hong Kong
New York

e : hradvisor@steensenvarming.com

STEENSEN VARMING

reasonable adjustments for candidates who have a disability. The organisation processes such information to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

For some roles, the organisation is obliged to seek information about criminal convictions and offences. Where the organisation seeks this information, it does so because it is necessary for it to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

If your application is unsuccessful, the organisation may keep your personal data on file in case there are future employment opportunities for which you may be suited. The organisation will ask for your consent before it keeps your data for this purpose and you are free to withdraw your consent at any time.

Who has access to data?

Your information may be shared internally for the purposes of the recruitment exercise. This includes members of the HR and recruitment team, interviewers involved in the recruitment process, managers in the business area with a vacancy and IT staff if access to the data is necessary for the performance of their roles. The organisation will not share your data with third parties, unless your application for employment is successful and it makes you an offer of employment. The organisation will then share your data with former employers to obtain references for you, employment background check providers to obtain necessary background checks and where required to obtain necessary criminal records checks. Your data may be transferred outside the European Economic Area (EEA) to be accessible for the purposes of the recruitment exercise to members of the HR and recruitment team, interviewers involved in the recruitment process, managers in the business area with a vacancy and IT staff if access to the data is necessary for the performance of their roles. Data is transferred across international studios on the basis of secure internal email.

How does Steensen Varming protect data?

Steensen Varming takes the security of your data seriously. It has internal policies and controls in place to ensure that your data is not lost, accidentally destroyed, misused or disclosed, and is not accessed except by our employees in the proper performance of their duties

For how long does Steensen Varming keep data?

If your application for employment is unsuccessful, the organisation will hold your data on file for 6 months after the end of the relevant recruitment process. If you agree to allow the organisation to keep your personal data on file, the organisations will hold your data on file for a further 2 years for consideration for future employment opportunities. At the end of that period or once you withdraw your consent, your data is deleted or destroyed.

If your application for employment is successful, personal data gathered during the recruitment process will be transferred to your personnel file and retained during your employment. The periods for which your data will be held will be provided to you in a new privacy notice.

Your rights

As a data subject, you have a number of rights. You can:

- access and obtain a copy of your data on request;
- require the organisation to change incorrect or incomplete data;

When I'm working on a problem,
I never think about beauty. I think
only how to solve the problem. But
when I have finished, if the solution
is not beautiful, I know it is wrong.
Richard Buckminster Fuller

Mechanical Engineering
Lighting Design
Sustainable Design
Electrical Engineering

Copenhagen
London
Sydney
Hong Kong
New York

e : hradvisor@steensenvarming.com

STEENSEN VARMING

- require the organisation to delete or stop processing your data, for example where the data is no longer necessary for the purposes of processing; and
- object to the processing of your data where the organisation is relying on its legitimate interests as the legal ground for processing.

If you would like to exercise any of these rights, please contact
hradvisor@steensenvarming.com

If you believe that the organisation has not complied with your data protection rights, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

What if you do not provide personal data?

You are under no statutory or contractual obligation to provide data to Steensen Varming during the recruitment process. However, if you do not provide the information, Steensen Varming may not be able to process your application properly or at all.

Automated decision-making

Recruitment processes are not based solely on automated decision-making.